The Twelve Days of Poetry

The schedule is ready (and enclosed). A big thank you goes to Anna Mioduchowska. This is definitely not going to be a series to miss. Why not take in all or most of the Twelve Days festival? Imbibe from the depths and breadth of the art of 45 poets.

The poets for the twelfth day will include one honored guest, Don McKay, and a selection of five poets from the first eleven days of the series. This year the patrons at the venues of the series will have the privilege of selecting the poets for the twelfth day. A friendly, on-your-honor system of balloting has been conceived. (Only the final result--the five names--will be revealed.)

Stroll of Poets Outreach.

The Stroll Society, with the financial backing of The Alberta Foundation for the Arts and Canada Council Explorations, is organizing an outreach of poets to various institutions and groups in the Edmonton area. (See ad on reverse for description of the Outreach.) The object is two-fold: 1, to encourage groups of people to write and to share their work; and 2, to promote interest in poetry in Edmonton.

Yes, and there's $100 available for each of 20 Outreach poets!

Poetry Live (the Latte Caffe Series)

The series is going full steam. A packed house every Thursday evening! Eight o'clock at Latte Caffe--on the second floor on the south-west corner of Fourth and Whyte. Phone Candace Bamber, 435-4360, if you'd like to read at Latte Caffe.

The series will include sweatshops and other special events after Christmas. Watch for an article about Poetry Live in an upcoming issue of See Magazine.

Grant MacEwan Community College Announces:

Early in the new year, the English Department of Grant MacEwan Community College will be offering a number of non-credit courses of interest to writers, teachers, and the general public.

Subjects covered include:
writing poetry and lyrics,
creating comedy,
coaching speech students,
studying Canadian literature,
reviewing grammar,
and more.

For more information, please call 497-5333.

Volunteers Needed!

Deck the halls with poetry propaganda. Come leaflet with us. This is not a request for door-to-door delivery in the wind and the snow, but for running leaflets to people who can distribute them. Maybe you have some ideas. Call Anna M. at 483-4267.
